

Suburban Girl Junkie

Tell me what good are you to me
Sitting there wishing you were anywhere but here
Talking to someone who just can't relate
Just cause the stars align doesn't mean its fate

Prechorus
So much in common yet so much apart
Different worlds set to collide from the very start
You don't understand I do think I'll explain
Its not you or me lets chalk it up to the rain

Chorus:
Suburban girl junkie
Do-do-do, do-do-do, do you remember me
Suburban girl junkie
Do-do-do, do-do-do, do you remember me

She's got a way with the words
First she's got you smiling then you belong to her
Wrapped around her finger like a leaf on a twig
Like Dylan said the answer is blowin' in the wind

Prechorus
Chorus

Bridge
Isn't it ironic the thing you wanted the most
Is the thing in the end you couldn't have
The fact it was right under your nose
And now it seems to be just outside your grasp

Prechorus
